Stem cell therapy is a type of regenerative medicine offered at all of our Texas Partners Healthcare Group locations. It is our top priority to not only work closely with our patients to find the right treatments for their needs, but to produce the best outcomes. Stem cell therapy has become one of the most effective forms of treatment in recent years, and we are proud to offer this service at our seven Texas locations. Stem cells are an integral part of each of us and they work to repair the body. As we get older or are plagued by injuries, these cells often do not work as well as they should. When rejuvenating cells are not able to repair the injured area, it typically results in pain and discomfort. Stem cell therapy can solve this problem and improve your body's ability to heal itself. As a relatively new treatment, we understand you probably have questions for our doctors.
